

02-6111(L)

02-6130(Con), 02-6140(Con), 02-6200(Con),
02-6211(Con), 02-6219(Con), 02-6301(Con),
02-6131(Xap), 02-6151(Xap), 02-6309(Xap)

UNITED STATES COURT OF APPEALS FOR THE SECOND CIRCUIT

---

CAYUGA INDIAN NATION OF NEW YORK,
Plaintiff-Appellee-Cross-Appellant,

SENECA-CAYUGA TRIBE OF OKLAHOMA, and Plaintiff-Intervenor-Appellee-Cross-Appellant,

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
Plaintiff-Intervenor-Appellee,

vs.

GEORGE PATAKI, as Governor of the State of New York, et al.
CAYUGA COUNTY and SENECA COUNTY,
MILLER BREWING COMPANY, et al.,
Defendants-Appellants-Cross-Appellees.

---

ON APPEAL FROM THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

---

BRIEF OF AMICUS SIX NATIONS HAUDENOSAUNEE CONFEDERACY IN SUPPORT OF CAYUGA NATION'S PETITION FOR REHEARING AND REHEARING *EN BANC

---

Robert T. Coulter
INDIAN LAW RESOURCE CENTER
602 North Ewing Street
Helena, MT 59601
Tel: 406/449-2006
Fax: 406/449-3833
E-mail: rtcoulter@indianlaw.org

Curtis G. Berkey
ALEXANDER, BERKEY, WILLIAMS &
WEATHERS LLP
2000 Center Street, Suite 308
Berkeley, CA 94704
Tel: 510/548-7070
Fax: 510/548-7080
E-mail: cgberkey@abwwlaw.com

*Attorneys for Amicus Six Nations
Haudenosaunee Confederacy*

Additional Counsel Listed on Next Page

Joseph J. Heath
716 E. Washington St., Suite 104
Syracuse, NY 13210
Tel: 315/475-2559
Fax: 315/475-2465
E-mail: jheath@atsny.com

Alexandra Page
INDIAN LAW RESOURCE CENTER
601 E Street, S.E.
Washington, D.C. 20003
Tel: 202/547-2800
Fax: 202/547-2803
E-mail: apage@indianlaw.org

Of Counsel:

Professor David Kairys
1719 N. Broad Street
Philadelphia, PA 19122

Professor Joseph William Singer
1525 Massachusetts Avenue
Cambridge, MA 02138

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page
ARGUMENT .....	1
1. Laches bars a specific, usually equitable remedy, not an entire legal claim .....	2
2. Laches is fact-specific and depends on a balancing of equities, and the defendant asserting laches has the burden of proof. Laches is not appropriately adjudicated by an appellate court as a matter of law unless based on a full evidentiary hearing and facts found by a trial court .....	3
3. Under the longstanding Second Circuit standard of review, a district court’s findings of fact on laches should be overturned on appeal only if they amount to an “abuse of discretion” .....	4
4. Laches may not be invoked by a party with unclean hands .....	4
5. Laches cannot be applied where legal or practical obstacles prevented a party from bringing suit .....	4

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

Cases

	Page
Cherokee Nation v. Georgia , 30 U.S. (5 Pet.) 1 (1831) .....	5
City of Sherrill v. Oneida Indian Nation of New York , 125 S.Ct. 1478 (2005) .....	3
Conopco, Inc. v. Campbell Soup Co. , 95 F.3d 187 (2 nd Cir. 1996) .....	3
County of Oneida v. Oneida Indian Nation , 414 U.S. 661 (1974) .....	7
County of Oneida v. Oneida Indian Nation , 470 U.S. 226 (1985) .....	5, 7
Deere v. St. Lawrence River Power Company , 32 F.2d 550 (2 nd Cir. 1929) .....	6
Elk v. Wilkins , 112 U.S. 94 (1884) .....	5
Ewert v. Bluejacket , 259 U.S. 129 (1922) .....	4
Felix v. Patrick , 145 U.S. 317 (1892) .....	3
Galliher v. Cadwell , 145 U.S. 368 (1892) .....	4
Ikelionwu v. United States , 150 F.3d 233 (2 nd Cir. 1998) .....	3
Ivani Contracting Corp. v. City of New York , 103 F.3d 257 (2 nd Cir. 1997) .....	2

	Page
Jaeger v. United States , 27 Ct.Cl. 278 (1892) .....	5
Johnson v. Long Island R.R. Co. , 56 N.E. 992 (N.Y. 1900) .....	5
Moe v. Confederated Salish &amp; Kootenai Tribes , 425 U.S. 463 (1976) .....	6
Oneida Indian Nation v. State of New York , 691 F.2d 1070 (2 nd Cir. 1982) .....	3
Pennecom B.V. v. Merrill Lynch &amp; Co., Inc. , 372 F.3d 488 (2 nd Cir. 2004) .....	4
Perez v. Danbury Hosp. , 347 F.3d 419 (2 nd Cir. 2003) .....	4
Seneca Nation of Indians v. Christy , 27 N.E. 275 (1891) .....	6
Stone v. Williams , 873 F.2d 620 (2 nd Cir. 1989), cert. denied 493 U.S. 959 (1989), vacated on other grounds , 891 F.2d 401 (2 nd Cir. 1989) .....	3, 4
Travelers Insurance Co. v. Cuomo , 14 F.3d 708 (2 nd Cir. 1993), rev'd on other grounds , 514 U.S. 645 (1995) .....	6
Tri-Star Pictures, Inc. v. Leisure Time Productions , 17 F.3d 38 (2 nd Cir. 1994) .....	3
United States v. Franklin County , 50 F. Supp. 152 (N.D. N.Y. 1943) .....	7

Statutes and Codes

Page

25 U.S.C. § 177 ..... 1

28 U.S.C. § 1362 ..... 7

Other Authority

Cohen, F., Handbook of Federal Indian Law (1982 ed.) ..... 6

Dobbs, D.B., The Law of Remedies § 2.4(4) (2d ed. 1993) ..... 2, 3, 4

Nelson, Katherine F., “Resolving Native American Land Claims and the Eleventh Amendment: Changing the Balance of Power,” 39 Vill. L. Rev. 525, 537 (1994) ..... 7

ARGUMENT

The Haudenosaunee urges rehearing.<sup>1</sup> A divided panel of this Court has crafted a new rule of laches that gives district and circuit judges unprecedented discretion to extinguish valid legal claims filed within the applicable statute of limitations. This dramatic reformulation of the law of laches lacks support in law or policy and directly contradicts several decisions of this Court and the Supreme Court. The panel majority used this new discretion to overturn a substantial money damages judgment and to completely dismiss a valid legal claim brought within the statute of limitations by the Cayuga Indian Nation of New York.<sup>2</sup>

The panel majority held that since one of the remedies sought by the Cayuga Nation, a possessory remedy, is barred by laches, all other remedies and the valid legal claim itself are also entirely barred. Based on this novel analysis, the panel majority avoided the usual question in a laches case: whether the remedy actually granted below – here, money damages – should be barred. Nor did the panel majority explain how any delay could be attributable to the Cayuga Nation, since it was legally precluded from bringing suit for almost 200 years as there was no

---

<sup>1</sup> The Haudenosaunee has authorized and approved the filing of this brief.

<sup>2</sup> The panel majority did not question the conclusion of the district court that the 1795 and 1807 “treaties” between the Cayugas and the State of New York violated the Trade and Intercourse Act, 25 U.S.C. § 177, and that, as a result, New York’s title is void ab initio.

court with jurisdiction to hear such a claim, and the courts refused to recognize the capacity of Indian nations to bring any suit.

The panel majority also ruled that the claim is barred by laches as if it were simply a matter of law – scarcely mentioning the district court’s contrary findings of fact on laches,<sup>3</sup> and not considering the Cayugas’ particular circumstances or remanding for a further evidentiary hearing. The result is a grave injustice to the Cayuga Nation, and the panel majority’s reformulation of the law of laches promises to do a similar injustice to countless future litigants.

Laches has always been limited to a plaintiff’s unreasonable delay that has caused prejudice to the defendant, and it is disfavored where there is an applicable statute of limitations. The determination is fact-specific, and the burden is on the defendant asserting laches. See generally D. B. Dobbs, The Law of Remedies § 2.4(4) (2d ed. 1993) and cases discussed below. The basis and reasoning of the panel majority’s decision, and its reformulation of the law of laches, are fundamentally unsound and in conflict with existing law.

1. Laches bars a specific, usually equitable remedy, not an entire legal claim. Ivani Contracting Corp. v. City of New York, 103 F.3d 257, 261-262

---

<sup>3</sup> For example, the district court found as a fact that the Cayugas’ were not responsible for the delay in filing suit, 165 F. Supp.2d at 354, but the panel majority took as a “fact” that their “long delay in seeking equitable relief” doomed the claim. 2005 WL 1514245 *12.

(2nd Cir. 1997); Ikelionwu v. United States, 150 F.3d 233 (2nd Cir. 1998); Oneida Indian Nation v. State of New York, 691 F.2d 1070 (2nd Cir. 1982); Felix v. Patrick, 145 U.S. 317 (1892); Dobbs, § 2.4(4) (laches “does not ordinarily bar legal claims, only equitable remedies”); City of Sherrill v. Oneida Indian Nation of New York, 125 S.Ct. 1478, 1487-94 (2005)(laches might apply to equitable remedy, but not to legal remedy).

The panel majority concluded, like the district court, that the possessory remedy requested in the complaint was too disruptive and barred by laches. But the majority opinion went on to bar the damages remedy, one that is not disruptive and delay of which does not prejudice the defendant. The panel held that if any remedy requested in a complaint is barred by laches, all remedies and the entire, otherwise valid legal claim are also barred.

2. Laches is fact-specific and depends on a balancing of equities, and the defendant asserting laches has the burden of proof. Laches is not appropriately adjudicated by an appellate court as a matter of law unless based on a full evidentiary hearing and facts found by a trial court. Tri-Star Pictures, Inc. v. Leisure Time Productions, 17 F.3d 38, 44 (2nd Cir. 1994); Stone v. Williams, 873 F.2d 620, 625 (2nd Cir. 1989), cert. denied 493 U.S. 959 (1989), vacated on other grounds, 891 F.2d 401 (2nd Cir. 1989); Conopco, Inc. v. Campbell Soup Co., 95 F.3d 187 (2nd Cir. 1996); Dobbs, § 2.4(4).

The panel majority relied on selective facts, completely ignored the lower court's findings, and did not remand the matter for further evidentiary hearings.

3. Under the longstanding Second Circuit standard of review, a district court's findings of fact on laches should be overturned on appeal only if they amount to an "abuse of discretion." Stone v. Williams, 873 F.2d at 625; Perez v. Danbury Hosp., 347 F.3d 419, 426 (2nd Cir. 2003).

The panel majority's version of the facts differs markedly from the facts found by the district court; yet the panel majority did not find an abuse of discretion by the district court.

4. Laches may not be invoked by a party with unclean hands. Pennecom B.V. v. Merrill Lynch & Co., Inc., 372 F.3d 488, 493 (2nd Cir. 2004). The panel majority does not mention the finding of the district court that New York State was guilty of bad faith in its dealings with the Cayugas. 165 F. Supp.2d 266, 355-356 (N.D. N.Y. 2001).

5. Laches cannot be applied where legal or practical obstacles prevented a party from bringing suit. Stone v. Williams, 873 F.2d at 625; Gallier v. Cadwell, 145 U.S. 368, 372 (1892); Ewert v. Bluejacket, 259 U.S. 129, 138 (1922); Dobbs, § 2.4(4). The plaintiff must have had ample opportunity to assert the claim in court. The delay must be unreasonable.

The district court found that the Cayugas were shut out of court for over 184 years. 165 F. Supp. 2d at 355. Yet the panel majority did not consider any of the legal or practical barriers that precluded the Cayuga Nation from bringing suit earlier.

From the earliest days of the republic through the nineteenth century, Indian nations lacked juridical personality in the federal courts except where provided by special statute. Efforts by Indian nations to surmount this barrier by appealing to the original jurisdiction of the Supreme Court as “foreign nations” were decisively rejected in Cherokee Nation v. Georgia, 30 U.S. (5 Pet.) 1 (1831). “The courts have not been open to the Indian, and the civil liberty which is the boast of our system has not been given to the Indians in any period of our history.” Jaeger v. United States, 27 Ct.Cl. 278, 282 (1892). The same rule obtained in the state courts of New York. Johnson v. Long Island R.R. Co., 56 N.E. 992 (N.Y. 1900).

In addition, Indian nations faced insurmountable jurisdictional barriers. For example, federal courts were not granted general federal question jurisdiction until 1875.<sup>4</sup> Even after federal question jurisdiction was established, the federal courts

---

<sup>4</sup> See County of Oneida v. Oneida Indian Nation, 470 U.S. 226, 255, n. 1 (1985) (Stevens, J. dissenting). Diversity of citizenship as a basis of federal court jurisdiction was almost never available to Indian nations, and certainly not to the Cayugas, until 1924 at the earliest, when the Indian Citizenship Act was passed. Before that date, Indians generally were not considered citizens of the United States in the absence of a treaty or statute conferring such status with the consent of the Indian nation. Elk v. Wilkins, 112 U.S. 94 (1884).

remained closed to tribal claims based on the Trade and Intercourse Act. Deere v. St. Lawrence River Power Company, 32 F.2d 550 (2nd Cir. 1929) (Mohawk claim under the Trade and Intercourse Act for lands taken by State of New York does not raise a federal question). New York State courts were closed to such claims as well. Seneca Nation of Indians v. Christy, 27 N.E. 275 (1891) (New York State could acquire Indian lands to which it held “right of preemption” without violating federal law); see Travelers Insurance Co. v. Cuomo, 14 F.3d 708, 714 (2nd Cir. 1993), rev’d on other grounds, 514 U.S. 645 (1995) (not bringing suit when the law “created little hope of success” is not delay).

Nor were suits by the United States on behalf of Indian nations available. See generally F. Cohen, Handbook of Federal Indian Law (1982 ed.) at 47-204 (discussing policies of assimilation, termination and self-determination). For many decades Indian nations could not reliably look to federal officials to file suit to protect their rights when the Indian nations themselves could not do so. See Moe v. Confederated Salish & Kootenai Tribes, 425 U.S. 463, 472 (1976) (28 U.S.C. § 1362 “opened federal courts to the kinds of claims that could have been brought by the United States as trustee, but for whatever reason were not so brought”). In a rare case when the United States did file suit, the court held that tribal rights under the Trade and Intercourse Act could not be enforced against the State of New York. United States v. Franklin County, 50 F. Supp. 152 (N.D. N.Y. 1943).

Moreover, even if the courts had been open, Indian nations faced enormous practical obstacles to filing suit, such as lack of financial resources, unfamiliarity with the English language, inability to retain attorneys, and unfamiliarity with the American legal system. See Katherine F. Nelson, "Resolving Native American Land Claims and the Eleventh Amendment: Changing the Balance of Power," 39 Vill. L. Rev. 525, 537 (1994). There was no meaningful opportunity to assert Indian rights sufficient to justify the conclusion that the Cayuga Nation "unreasonably delayed."

Not until 1966 were most of these jurisdictional and juridical barriers overcome, when Congress enacted 28 U.S.C. § 1362. But even after the enactment of the jurisdictional statute, the ability of Indian nations to enforce the requirements of the Trade and Intercourse Act against states and private parties was not firmly established. Federal question jurisdiction was not established until 1974 (County of Oneida v. Oneida Indian Nation, 414 U.S. 661 (1974)), and the existence of a right of action under the Trade and Intercourse Act was not firmly established until 1985. County of Oneida v. Oneida Indian Nation, 470 U.S. 226 (1985).

The panel majority has substantially re-written the law of laches in the Second Circuit without reason, a factual basis or supporting authority. The unprecedented discretion to dismiss valid legal claims filed within the statute of limitations on the ground that any one of the remedies requested by a plaintiff is barred by laches is not supported by legal authority and lacks common sense and basic fairness. Given the origins and purposes of laches in equity, application of this newly cast law of laches to claims and plaintiffs who have been excluded from the courts is particularly inappropriate. The decision in effect punishes the Cayuga Nation for "delay" caused by the failure of our nation and courts to recognize them as others have been recognized.

Dated: August 19, 2005

Respectfully submitted,

---

Robert T. Coulter
INDIAN LAW RESOURCE CENTER
602 North Ewing Street
Helena, MT 59601
Tel: 406/449-2006
Fax: 406/449-3833
E-mail: rtcoulter@indianlaw.org

Curtis G. Berkey
ALEXANDER, BERKEY, WILLIAMS
& WEATHERS LLP
2000 Center Street, Suite 308
Berkeley, CA 94704
Tel: 510/548-7070
Fax: 510/548-7080
E-mail: cgberkey@abwwlaw.com

Joseph J. Heath
716 E. Washington St., Suite 104
Syracuse, NY 13210
Tel: 315/475-2559
Fax: 315/475-2465
E-mail: jheath@atsny.com

Alexandra Page
INDIAN LAW RESOURCE CENTER
601 E Street, S.E.
Washington, D.C. 20003
Tel: 202/547-2800
Fax: 202/547-2803
E-mail: apage@indianlaw.org

*Attorneys for Amicus Six Nations
Haudenosaunee Confederacy*

Of Counsel:

Professor David Kairys
1719 N. Broad Street
Philadelphia, PA 19122

Professor Joseph William Singer
1525 Massachusetts Avenue
Cambridge, MA 02138

DECLARATION OF SERVICE BY U.S. MAIL

I, the undersigned, declare as follows:

I am a citizen of the United States of America, over the age of 18 years, and not a party to the above-entitled action. My business address is 2000 Center Street, Suite 308, Berkeley, California, 94704.

On August 19, 2005, I caused to be served the following document(s) in Cayuga Indian Nation, et al. v. George Pataki, et al., Docket No.: 02-6111 CV

1) BRIEF OF AMICUS SIX NATIONS HAUDENOSAUNEE CONFEDERACY IN SUPPORT OF CAYUGA NATION'S PETITION FOR REHEARING AND REHEARING *EN BANC

by depositing two copies in the United States mail at Berkeley, California, in an envelope with first class postage fully paid, addressed as follows:

Anthony M. Feeherry
Gus P. Coldebella
GOODWIN PROCTOR LLP
Exchange Place
Boston, MA 02109

Carey R. Ramos
PAUL, WEISS, RIFKIND, WHARTON &
GARRISON LLP
1285 Avenue of the Americas
New York, NY 10019

Arlinda Locklear
Law Office of Arlinda Locklear
P.O. Box 3809 Jefferson Pike
Jefferson, MD 21755

David B. Robert
Office of the New York State Attorney
The Capitol
Albany, NY 12224

Edward J. Ide
6472 Short Road
Cayuga, NY 13034

Eliot L. Spitzer
Attorney General of the State of New York
The Capitol
Albany, NY 12224

Elizabeth C. Dribusch
New York Farm Bureau, Inc.
159 Wolf Road
Albany, NY 12205-0330

Glenn M. Feldman
MARISCAL, WEEKS, MCINTYRE &
FRIEDLANDER
2901 Central Avenue
Phoenix, AZ 85012

Howard L. Zwickel
Office of the New York State Attorney
The Capitol
Albany, NY 12224

Jeanne S. Whiteing
WHITEING & SMITH
1136 Pearl Street
Boulder, CO 80302

John D. Draghi
LEBOEUF, LAMB, GREENE & MACRAE
125 W. 55th Street
New York, NY 10019

Marie Bray
HARRIS BEACH LLP
99 Garnsey Road
Pittsford, NY 14534

Martin R. Gold
Raymond J. Heslin
SONNENSCHNEIN, NATH & ROSENTHAL
1221 Avenue of the Americas
New York, NY 10020

Richard K. Hughes
HISCOCK & BARCLAY
300 Financial
221 S. Warren Street
P.O. Box 4878
Syracuse, NY 13221

Todd S. Kim
U.S. Department of Justice
Environment and Natural Resources Division
L'Enfant Plaza Station
P.O. Box 23795
Washington, D.C. 20026

William W. Taylor
ZUCKERMAN, SPAEDER, GOLDSTEIN,
TAYLOR & KOLKER LLP
1201 Connecticut Ave., NW
Washington, D.C. 20036

On August 19, 2005, I sent an original and 10 copies of the brief via Federal Express to the Clerk of the Court of the Second Circuit Court of Appeals addressed as follows:

Clerk of the Court
United States Court of Appeals
Second Circuit
40 Foley Square
New York, NY 10007

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct, and that this Declaration was executed on August 19, 2005, at Berkeley, California.

_____
Martha Morales