STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Thousands of state criminal prosecutions have been called into question by this Court's decision in McGirt v. Oklahoma, 140 S. Ct. 2452 (2020). Like the pending petition in Oklahoma v. Bosse, No. 21-186, this case presents the question whether McGirt should be overruled. For the same reasons given in the Bosse petition, review is warranted here to examine that question. The petition for a writ of certiorari in this case should either be granted or, if the petition in Bosse is granted, held pending a decision in Bosse and then disposed of as is appropriate.

1. Respondent and another individual donned masks and burst into Christian DeHart's garage, where he was spending time with friends (Tr.III 513-17, 592-600; Tr.IV 751).<sup>1</sup> Respondent's intent was to steal a large quantity of marijuana from the home (Tr.III 500, 534, 612-13; Tr. IV 885; Tr.V 939). When one of the victims resisted, the men opened fire and shot three of the victims, including Christian, with AR-15 assault rifles (Tr.III 513-17, 592-600; Tr.IV 751). Christian died from his injuries (Tr.III 596-600). Respondent was convicted of first-degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment.

2. After this Court issued its decision in McGirt, the Court of Criminal Appeals remanded the case to the trial court for an evidentiary hearing. On remand, the district court found, based on the parties' stipulations, that respondent has a 15/128 Indian blood quantum and was enrolled as a member of the Muscogee (Creek) Nation on December 5, 1995—before the murder. App.13a. The court thus concluded that respondent is an Indian. App.13a. The court further held, based on the parties' stipulations and McGirt, that the crime was committed within the Creek reservation. App.14a.

The Court of Criminal Appeals vacated the conviction, adopting the trial court's conclusions and holding that the federal government had exclusive authority to prosecute respondent for the crime at issue. App.2a-4a.

Two judges wrote separate opinions. Judge Lumpkin concurred in the result. App.6a-8a. He expressed his view that the Court's opinion in McGirt "contravened * * * the history leading to the disestablishment of the Indian reservations in Oklahoma," but concluded that he was bound to follow it. App.6a.

Judge Hudson specially concurred. App.9a. Like Judge Lumpkin, he concurred "as a matter of stare decisis," but he observed that McGirt has a "far-reaching impact on the criminal justice system in Oklahoma. . . ." App.9a.

REASONS FOR GRANTING THE PETITION

In the decision below, the Oklahoma Court of Criminal Appeals applied McGirt to free yet another criminal from state custody, exacerbating the crisis in the criminal-justice system in Oklahoma. As the State of Oklahoma explains in its petition in Bosse, reconsideration of McGirt is the only realistic avenue for ending the ongoing chaos affecting every corner of daily life in Oklahoma. This case presents yet another opportunity to end the damage caused by McGirt. For the same reasons offered in Bosse, this petition should either be granted or, if the petition in Bosse is granted, held pending a decision in Bosse and then disposed of as is appropriate.

As explained more fully in Bosse, McGirt was wrongly decided, and the Court's review is urgently needed because no recent decision has had a more immediate and disruptive effect on life in an American State. McGirt contravened longstanding precedent on the disestablishment of Indian reservations. 140 S. Ct. at 2485 (Roberts, C.J., dissenting). It did so by wrongly reasoning that historical materials showing the original public meaning of statutes may be considered in the disestablishment inquiry "only" to "clear up" statutory ambiguity. See id. at 2467-2468, 2469-2470 (majority opinion). But consideration of history is necessary precisely because it is unclear whether Congress's alienation of Indian lands at the turn of the century changed the Indian country status of the land. See id. at 2488 (Roberts, C.J., dissenting). Under the correct framework prescribed by this Court's precedent, it is clear that Congress disestablished the Creek territory in Oklahoma, as well as the territories of the four other Oklahoma tribes. And with that conclusion, it is clear that the decision below is incorrect and warrants reversal.

Overruling McGirt and restoring the state jurisdiction it stripped is important not only for this case and the victims of the terrible crime at issue. As the Chief Justice correctly predicted, the “burdens” of the McGirt decision on the State of Oklahoma have been “extraordinary.” 140 S. Ct. at 2500. The challenges from that seismic shift in jurisdiction have rippled through every aspect of life in Oklahoma. Most immediately, McGirt has jeopardized the state’s jurisdiction over thousands of criminal cases—this case being just one of them.

The question presented in this case is materially identical to the third question presented in Bosse. For the compelling reasons explained in the petition in Bosse, review should be granted in that case. The Court should then either grant review in this case or hold the petition pending the resolution of the third question presented in Bosse.

CONCLUSION

The petition for a writ of certiorari should be granted. In the alternative, if the petition in Oklahoma v. Bosse, No. 21-186, is granted, the petition in this case should be held pending a decision there and then disposed of as is appropriate.
