JURISDICTION

The judgment of the Oklahoma Court of Criminal Appeals was entered on September 2, 2021. App.1a. The jurisdiction of this Court is invoked under 28 U.S.C. 1257(a).

STATUTORY PROVISIONS INVOLVED

18 U.S.C. § 1151 (in relevant part) Indian country defined

[T]he term ‘Indian country’, as used in this chapter, means (a) all land within the limits of any Indian reservation under the jurisdiction of the United States Government, notwithstanding the issuance of any patent, and, including rights-of-way running through the reservation.

18 U.S.C. § 1152 (in relevant part) Law governing (Indian country)

Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, the general laws of the United States as to the punishment of offenses committed in any place within the sole and exclusive jurisdiction of the United States, except the District of Columbia, shall extend to the Indian country.

18 U.S.C. § 1153(a)*Offenses committed within Indian country

Any Indian who commits against the person or property of another Indian or other person any of the following offenses, namely, murder, manslaughter, kidnapping, maiming, a felony under chapter 109A, incest, a felony assault under section 113, an assault against an individual who has not attained the age of 16 years, felony child abuse or neglect, arson, burglary, robbery, and a felony under section 661 of this title within the Indian country, shall be subject to the same law and penalties as all other persons committing any of the above offenses, within the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Thousands of state criminal prosecutions have been called into question by this Court's decision in McGirt v. Oklahoma, 140 S.Ct. 2452 (2020). Like the pending petition in Oklahoma v. Castro-Huerta, No. 21-429, this case presents the question whether McGirt should be overruled. For the same reasons given in the Castro-Huerta petition, review is warranted to examine that question. The petition in Castro-Huerta should be granted, and this petition should be held pending a decision there. In the alternative, the petition in this case should be granted.

1. On June 30, 2014, respondent fired multiple shots from a 12-gauge shotgun at the home of a rival gang member. Tr. II 233-34, 241-50, 284-85.* Respondent shot and killed his rival's grandmother, Ella Loftis, who was sitting on the front porch. Tr. I 204-05; Tr. II 233.

Respondent was convicted of second-degree felony murder and sentenced to twenty-seven years' imprisonment. He then appealed to the Court of Criminal Appeals, claiming the State lacked authority to prosecute him because he was an Indian and he killed Ms. Loftis in Indian country.

2. The Court of Criminal Appeals remanded the case to the state district court for an evidentiary hearing on March 26, 2021. App.15a. On remand, the parties stipulated that respondent was an enrolled member of the Chickasaw Nation and possessed a 1/8 degree of Chickasaw blood at the time of the crime. App.12a. Furthermore, the parties stipulated that respondent's crime occurred within the historical boundaries of the Chickasaw Nation. App.12a. The State, however, stated it "strongly believes that McGirt was wrongly decided and therefore, Defendant's Indian Count[r]y jurisdictional claim is without merit." State's Pre-Evidentiary Hearing Br. at 3 (May 20, 2021). The state district court ultimately accepted the parties' stipulations and determined that respondent was an Indian, and that the crime occurred within the boundaries of the Chickasaw Reservation, as that reservation had been recognized by the Oklahoma Court of Criminal Appeals. App.12a-14a.

After the state district court issued its findings of fact and conclusions of law, the case returned to the Oklahoma Court of Criminal Appeals. There, the State argued, as it had below, that “the State strenuously disagrees with the holdings in McGirt and Bosse, and preserves the right to ask the Supreme Court to review those holdings.” Supplemental Br. of Appellee After Remand at 2 n.2 (Aug. 3, 2021). The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the conviction, finding the district court “appropriately applied McGirt[.]” App.5a. Judge Lumpkin, who authored the opinion, included a footnote in which he expressed his continued belief that McGirt was wrongly decided. App.1a-2a, n.1. Two judges wrote separate opinions.

Judge Hudson specially concurred in the result based on stare decisis, but stated his “previously expressed views on the significance of McGirt, its far-reaching impact on the criminal justice system in Oklahoma and the need for a practical solution by Congress.” App.8a.

Judge Lewis also concurred in the result based on his previous writings in Bosse v. State, 2021 OK CR 3, 484 P.3d 286, opinion withdrawn by Bosse v. State, 2021 OK CR 30, ___ P.3d ___, and Hogner v. State, 2021 OK CR 4, ___ P.3d ___. App.9a.

REASONS FOR GRANTING THE PETITION

In the decision below, the Oklahoma Court of Criminal Appeals applied McGirt to free yet another criminal from state custody, exacerbating the crisis in the criminal-justice system in Oklahoma. As the State of Oklahoma explains in its petition in Castro-Huerta, reconsideration of McGirt is the only realistic avenue for ending the ongoing chaos affecting every corner of daily life in Oklahoma. See Pet. at 17-29, Oklahoma v. Castro-Huerta, No. 21-429. This case presents yet another opportunity to end the damage caused by McGirt. If the petition in Castro-Huerta is granted, this petition should be held pending a decision in Castro-Huerta and then disposed of as is appropriate. In the alternative, this petition should be granted.

As explained more fully in Castro-Huerta, McGirt was wrongly decided, and the Court's review is urgently needed because no recent decision has had a more immediate and disruptive effect on life in an American State. McGirt contravened longstanding precedent on the disestablishment of Indian reservations. 140 S.Ct. at 2485 (Roberts, C.J., dissenting). It did so by wrongly reasoning that historical materials showing the original public meaning of statutes may be considered in the disestablishment inquiry "only" to "clear up" statutory ambiguity. See id. at 2467-2468, 2469-2470 (majority opinion). But consideration of history is necessary precisely because it is unclear whether Congress's alienation of Indian lands at the turn of the century changed the Indian country status of the land. See id. at 2488 (Roberts, C.J., dissenting). Under the correct framework prescribed by this Court's precedent, it is clear that Congress disestablished the Creek territory in Oklahoma, as well as the territories of the four other Oklahoma tribes. And with that conclusion, it is clear the decision below is incorrect and warrants reversal.

Overruling McGirt and restoring the state jurisdiction it stripped is important not only for this case and the victim of the terrible crime at issue. As the Chief Justice correctly predicted, the “burdens” of the McGirt decision on the State of Oklahoma have been “extraordinary.” 140 S.Ct. at 2500. The challenges from that seismic shift in jurisdiction have rippled through every aspect of life in Oklahoma. Most immediately, McGirt has jeopardized the State’s jurisdiction over thousands of criminal cases—this case being just one of them.

The question presented in this case is materially identical to the second question presented in Castro-Huerta. For the compelling reasons explained in the petition in Castro-Huerta, review on this question is warranted.

CONCLUSION

The petition for a writ of certiorari in Castro-Huerta should be granted, and the petition in this case should be held pending a decision there and then disposed of as is appropriate. In the alternative, this petition should be granted.
